MUNICIPALITY OF GUIGUINTO

The name “Guiguinto” literally translates to “Gold”. The early conquistadores went to this town on a harvest season when it lusher in golden rice stalks against the sun. Through the pages of history, Guiguinto gave justice to its name for it proved to be of great political worth, abounding in agricultural riches and of its strategic import since the times of the Encomienda in the 1590’s.

In 1951, the Municipality of Guiguinto was one of the territorial classification of the Spaniards known as the “Encomienda” referring to the parcelization of land for taxation purposes.

Known by its ancient name “Ma-yi”, the Province of Bulacan is believed to have been settled long before the Spanish Explorer came to the Philippines. These settlements were organized by the Spaniards into early towns called “Pueblos” which include the town of Guiguinto. Guiguinto was founded in 1641.

In 1903, the 25 municipalities of Bulacan were reduced to 13. With this consolidation, Guiguinto became part of the Municipality of Bulacan. Since then, several other divisions and modifications have been done on the territorial boundaries of the towns in the Province of Bulacan.

However, on 24 December 1914, Governor General Francis Burton Harrison issued Order Ejecutiva No. 126 (Executive Order No. 126) separating Guiguinto from the Municipality of Bulacan, Bulacan.

Hence, on January 1, 1915 Guiguinto started to be recognized as an independent municipality with Antonio Figueroa as its first “Municipal President”. The town’s population was then about 4,000.
